PORTFOLIO COMMENTARY

During the period, rising global trade tensions continued to concern investors. The North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) was replaced with the United States-Mexico-Canada Agreement (USMCA) after an agreement was reached before the October 1 deadline. The United States imposed tariffs on US$200 billion worth of Chinese imports. The initial tariffs were set at 10%, rising to 25% by year end.

With these new tariffs now in place, Morgan Stanley estimates that the United States has implemented tariffs on approximately 4.1% of imports, ranging from steel and aluminum, to washing machines and solar panels. This resulted in deteriorating relations between the United States and China and concerns that the trade dispute could spill over into broader geopolitical relations between the two countries.

Stock selection within the financials and materials sectors contributed to performance, as did currency hedging. Individual contributors to performance included Pigeon Corporation after it announced strong results, with upbeat sales across most of its business lines. The company also reported improved margins.

Security selection within the industrials sector detracted from performance. Individual detractors from performance included Ambev. The company experienced a more challenging competitive environment, Brazilian economic instability and currency issues, which resulted in weaker results.

We purchased new positions in Beiersdorf and RELX during the period. Holdings in Tencent Holdings Ltd., Disco Corp. and Seria Co. Ltd. were eliminated.

With short-term interest rates rising, we will closely monitor leading indicators for signs that the global economy may be softening. We continue to focus on finding high-quality companies with identifiable competitive advantages at attractive prices. When evaluating the merits of a business, the manager looks at a broad range of scenarios to help prepare for any potential volatility.
